A Sample of Descriptive Essay About a Person

The title of the following essay is “The Blind Man by the Street Side”

As the sun lit up the bustling downtown streets in a golden glow, the distant sounds of street musicians, pedestrians chattering, and car horns created a symphony of city life. In the middle of this colorful landscape, a blind man sat in a weathered wooden chair, his presence both mysterious and reassuring. His hands were old and rough from hard living, and he had heavy shades on over his blind eyes, which seemed to be able to see right through the din.

A plain mat with a few items on it, including a little cup for spare cash, a cracked thermos, and an old leather-bound book, rested at his feet. The metallic clink of the coins in a cup created a positive atmosphere, which was simultaneously comforting and confirming. Though largely ignored, this blind man used his listening skills to become an active participant in the life of his community: he could hear people talking, the rustling of leaves in the wind, and the life of the city around him.

His presence was a sign of joy for the children living nearby. They came to him daily to listen to fictional tales, while the adult ones liked him for his sense of empathy and reflection. The blind man reminded all who passed by that true vision comes from the heart and head, not the eyes. He was a symbol of serenity in an otherwise unforgiving world. He was a calm narrator in the world and often decided not to listen, but the sun went down and drew the sky with the last blow.

A Sample of Descriptive Essay About a Place

“My Favorite Traveling Spot”

There is a place where time seems to stand still in the midst of the incessant flow of existence, inviting me to take a deep breath and give my full attention to the present moment. My favorite retreat is a peaceful haven tucked away in the rolling hills of the Lake District; its scenic charm captures my spirit.

Every step you take in this place exposes a landscape painted in emerald and azure tones, with serene lakes reflecting the sky above your head. I wander along the narrow paths, enjoying the gentle sound of falling leaves and the soothing sound of a waterfall cascading over ancient rocks in the distance. The dramatic contrast between the high peaks and quiet valleys of the Lake District adds to its appeal.

Each time I arrive, it is as if nature is beckoning me to take a moment to relax, reflect, and connect. I can lose myself in the beauty of the surroundings and emerge rejuvenated as the calm waves reflect upon me. The worries of the outside world disappear in this sanctuary, leaving only moments of calm and pure bliss. This place of grandeur and peace makes my heart feel very at home.
